News from last night

The news from Lancaster and Morecambe is that for those who really are only just managing - even in Britain in 2018 - it only takes one misfortune (an illness, a late payment, a child's lost coat) to end up with no food, or even no home.

Churches and charities in Lancaster and Morecambe provide emergency Food Banks, a Night Shelter for the otherwise street-homeless, and, between them, a pattern of free meals, warm daytime venues, and company and support, that can restore some human dignity, and help get people back on their feet.

Six speakers from various projects talked about their work, and the joy that can come through helping others and making a real difference – but they also talked about their frustration that even parliamentarians now take them for granted as an extra safety-net making up for the inadequacies of official provision in welfare, mental health, and a whole range of other support services for the vulnerable.

But while ever these needs remain, the churches and charities are there, meeting human need with human compassion.

'IN TRANSITION'

So many young people are choosing gender transition that it is now affecting virtually every high school in the country.

Our panel includes

- Fr Luiz Ruscillo (head of education for the Diocese of Lancaster)
- Revd Chris Newlands (Lancaster Priory)
- Kirsty Allan (Creative Wellbeing) and
- Dr Lewis Turner (Lancaster LGBT, providing training and support services to Lancaster's schools, colleges and universities)

Numbers have been doubling every year and this is our chance to find out more.

Hornby's Armistice Centenary service is at the war memorial this Sunday 11 November starting 10.55am prompt, and continuing in the two churches. The Armistice Centenary display will be open in Saint Margaret's the same day from 2pm to 4pm.
