Arkholme enjoyed a village apple-pressing day on Saturday 21 October, following a village apple-picking day on Sunday 15 October. Thank you to everybody who came along to make it such a huge success. There was even juice left over and available in the hall afterwards – but it's all gone now! Graham J-P

The Arkholme Christmas Tree is being donated from the grounds of Docker Park Farm, and a small working party is required to help move it from there to the village green on the first weekend in December (and then to take it down early in January). Offers please to Gillian Hodgson 21814 gillianhodgson6@gmail.com

The coffee morning for Macmillan Nurses at Teal Cottage raised an amazing £440. Thank you to everyone who came, donated raffle prizes and helped on the day

Arkholme Parish Council met on Monday 4 September. The winner of the Hopewell Cup competition for a Traditional Style Cake was Louise Jones, who keeps the Hopewell Cup for one year and will judge next year's competition. The adult runner-up was Julia Gaunt, and the child winners were Beau & Daisy Barker. Congratulations to the winners, who each received a £15 book voucher. A volunteer is sought to repair, replace and maintain the wooden benches and noticeboard as required. The continuously flashing school signs were reported on FixMyStreet.com. The Neighbourhood Plan meeting held in July had been attended by 7 parishioners. The council will contact Provincial Inns regarding potential plans for The Bay Horse Hotel. Next meeting Monday 2 October 7.30pm in Arkholme Village Hall.

Melling Parish Council and Nether Kellet Parish Council are both looking for new clerks. These are paid positions, and details are available from David Nott on 21567 (Melling) and David Whitaker 01524 732810 (Nether Kellet).

Arkholme and District WI

Monday 9 October saw sixteen members and one visitor meet in Arkholme Village Hall. Janice was in the chair with Nicole as secretary.

Business first. Nominations were requested for next year's committee. There was a discussion of team names for our entries in the Federation Fun Quiz in January. Our entry in the County Show did very well and members who have not yet been to Denman are invited to apply for a first-timer's bursary. Two members have been invited to Dalemmain House for afternoon tea, with a view to taking more members to visit the Hall in the future. Halton WI have invited us to join them on their trip to Carlisle and our WI November outing is to Gretna Green on November 20th. Our Christmas celebration will be lunch at Holker Hall on December 8th. Jane reported a healthy bank balance but she does have some bills to pay. We also learned of the many courses and talks available to us at venues around the county – from a talk on food allergies at Bolton-le-Sands to a literary lunch in Blackburn.

Janice then introduced Andrew Lowe whose illustrated talk on Lakeland Farmhouses was interesting, informative and entertaining. Studying these farmhouses reveals a great deal about their occupants. Apart from meeting the basic requirements of protection from the elements, warmth, light, and cooking, the carvings, door handles, cupboards, fireplaces and decorated plasterwork reveal their tastes, superstitions, aspirations and wealth.

The next meeting is on 13 November in Arkholme Village Hall and will be our AGM. The new committee will be elected, the old year will be reviewed, and there will be a Jacob's Join. Visitors welcome.

Gerald writes...

What a happy night we had at the Harvest Supper, good company, good food, and surrounded by fellow villagers – far more enjoyable than sitting at home watching TV.

Congratulations to Malcolm Fell for winning the prize for the Best Managed Farm at the Westmorland County Show. Well done for all the hard work it must have required to reach such a high standard.

Once again the Church was beautifully decorated for the Harvest Festival, each individual window was so nicely decorated and the screen and altar flowers were once again superbly crafted – it really is a pleasure to view these colourful displays.

This month we will be commemorating Remembrance Sunday when we recall the lives of the young men who left our village to fight for their country and never returned. They never got to enjoy the world as we know it today. But for their sacrifices we may never have enjoyed the freedom we take for granted. [Services start in each church at 10.30am – Ed.]

A word of advice to the young man we passed one dark night riding his bike dressed in dark clothing and with no lights to warn other road users – he is an accident statistic waiting to happen. Your parents should have more sense than allow you out on a bike so poorly prepared for the conditions, what a pity we no longer have a local policeman, he would certainly have given you a dressing down and made you walk home!

The next dance at the Village Hall is on Saturday 18 November when Dennis Westmorland will be providing the music.

Arkholme Parish Church

This delightful early-seventeenth-century Wainscot chair had been hiding unloved and unusable in the church vestry, its joints weak, its seat collapsed.

With the building not needing any urgent work, the churchyard path freshly resurfaced, and the gates freshly varnished, the opportunity was taken to have its woodwork restored by Ian Ellison of Forton, and the seat reupholstered by Christie of Lancaster – both using original methods and materials, and to a truly exceptional high standard.

The result is a chair that can once again take its place in the sanctuary, fit for another 400 years. The end result is shown left. The 'before' picture is to the right – along with the detail of the back panel, an intricate carving that shows the scourging of Jesus by the Roman soldiers on Good Friday.

Arkholme Parish Church

Arkholme's Parish Church of Saint John the Baptist stands on a site that dates back a thousand years. The current building dates from around 1450, with a major re-ordering in 1788 and a further restoration in 1897. The organ and the only stained-glass in the church are twentieth century, along with the font cover dated 1959 and the 1999 millennium mosaic. The Thankful Villages centenary memorial stone was put in place as the village's war memorial in 2014.

All three villages in the Wagtail area have active parish churches. On many Sundays there are services in all three. Each one has a programme of three services every month, and there are extra services at Harvest, Christmas and Easter. All three churches will mark Remembrance Sunday with services starting at 10.30am and including the 11am silence. It is testament to the way that the churches remain at the very heart of village life in all three villages.

Arkholme PCC lives rather from hand-to-mouth, with no reserves, but successfully maintaining parish life (about half of those who attend have joined in the last five years) and doing what it can, when it can, for the fabric of the building. We very much hope that our church building – which is both beautiful and practical – can continue to serve the village as an active parish church for many years to come.

Monthly giving from within the village provides about half of the parish church's income – and the security needed to plan from year to year. People give between £5 per month and £40 per month – equivalent to between £60 per year and £480 per year. Most opt for around £10 per month; others give a generous annual donation instead. Five pounds per week would be £21.65 per month.

To set up your regular donation (or to make a one-off donation) you can visit your bank branch, or use online, mobile or telephone banking, to set up a payment to the Arkholme PCC account 01-01-60 94800464. If you include your address as the reference, the treasurer will contact you about Gift Aid, which increases the value of your donation by 25%. Your contribution will help to ensure that the church remains active at the heart of village life now and into the future.

The weather in Arkholme

September Weather in Arkholme

19 Slightly Wet Days (less than 5mm) together adding up to 27.9mm

6 Decidedly Wet Days (from 5mm to just under 25mm) adding a further 88.6mm

1 Extremely Wet Day (25mm and above) adding 31.6mm

26 Rain Days altogether adding up to 148.1mm (5.8 inches) – leaving 4 dry days

The one Extremely Wet Day was 12th-13th with 31.6mm

all compared to a typical monthly average of 80mm

September has shown no sign of an end to the wet weather which began towards the end of May. It has been a little drier than June and July, but not much – its total is 50% above the long term average of about 80mm for any month of the year. Though the number of Decidedly Wet Days is down to 6, at 23.8 mm the wettest of them narrowly missed being an Extremely Wet Day. In fact this day and the Wettest Day (a genuine EWD) totalled 55mm. Afternoon temperatures reached 19°C on September 4th, but persistent cloud kept many afternoons between 15 and 17°C, with a miserable 13°C on the 29th.

The rainfall total for June, July, August and September is almost 639 mm, which is about half of the total for a wettish year here, and averages 160mm per month, which is essentially double our notional monthly 80mm (which will of course begin to rise if this sort of weather becomes more common).

Again the number of Decidedly Wet Days is into double figures, as it has been for 4 of this year's 8 complete months. A striking feature of the new way of presenting the rainfalls, is that these Decidedly Wet Days average about 10mm per day, so that 10 of them typically deposit 100 mm, as this month, before we add the contribution from the more numerous Slightly Wet Days. The many cloudy days kept afternoon temperatures mostly below 20°C, but the muggy nights have partly hidden the fact that these values are well below the seasonal average.

October has shown no let up in the wet weather, with 125mm already by the 19th, and time for lots more.

The daughter of Tropical Hurricane/Storm Ophelia passed by on Monday September 16th, with very strong winds on the coast, but lesser winds inland, and mercifully little rain, at least in our area. The dull, lurid, liver-coloured sky was very impressive during the morning of the 16th, and was blamed variously on dust from the Sahara, and smoke from bush fires in Portugal. I heard of a couple of people who smelt burning, and believe that some flights ended early because of smoke in the cabins.

These things do happen. Fine dust and smoke particles fall at less than a centimetre per second in still air, and will therefore climb if they are in persistent faster updrafts. They can encourage the formation of cloud in rising moist air, and since a standard raindrop contains as much water as a million cloud droplets, the contaminated rain can leave brown stains on car bodies. I haven't heard of this on this occasion, but of course attention was focussed on the very strong winds. Some of the strongest gusts reported on the west of Ireland approached 100mph. These imply sustained winds of about 75mph, which is just into Hurricane Force 12. Feisty Ophelia.

Robin McIlveen

By the end of September there have been 76 dry days in 2017, 128 Slightly Wet Days giving 180mm of rain, 65 Decidedly Wet Days giving 688mm, and 4 Extremely Wet Days giving 127mm. That makes 197 Rain Days giving 994mm of rain (39.1 inches). Continued at this rate, the year's rainfall would be 1,329mm, which is very high.
